VOLUME XXII • NUMBER 3 • SPRING, 1970 • Published in the interests of the Alumni at intervals during the school year by the Office for Alumni Relations and Development, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Michigan. ALUMNUS Publications Committee: John H. Miller, Director of Alumni Relations and Acting Director of Development; Lonny Head, Assistant Director of Alumni Relations; Frances H. Gray, Editorial Assistant; Neil C. Bertram, Publications Editor; and Kathleen M. Dickson, Assistant Publications Editor.

FROM THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE

Most things have changed dramatically at Eastern Michigan University in recent years, but nothing has changed more than the offices dealing with alumni relations. In terms of service to Eastern graduates, and in the interest of the continuing mission of the University, no change has been more important.

Most of us can remember a few short years ago when the alumni office was operated from side drawers and file space in the Division of Field Services. Earl Studt, who continues to guide that important section of the University, had the responsibility for Alumni Relations as part of his assignment. He and the dedicated persons in his office did yeoman work in maintaining records and communication, especially through the alumni magazine. The magazine usually consisted of 12 or 16 pages and was published two or three times a year. It was the major communication between alumni and their University: it was, for many, the only communication.

In July, 1966, Eastern established a full-time Office of Alumni Relations and hired the first full-time director and staff. John Bruce established the office and in two years of hard work laid the foundations for the highly respected professional operation that has come into existence.

Jack Miller, who is now director of alumni relations and acts as head of the new development division as well, and Lonny Head, his able assistant, are supported by an effective staff that includes many students.

The office publications program has increased to a point where alumni now receive not only a magazine greatly expanded in quality and size, but numerous other communications that report on events and programs.

Activities of the office also include tours and trips, which have attracted many alumni and friends of Eastern.

The newest section of this phase of University outreach is the development concept. Needs of the University increase as we accept more and more responsibility for service. Costs increase at Eastern as they increase everywhere. The state legislature has been highly supportive of our efforts to elevate the stature of Eastern, and so have alumni and friends. We appreciate support already given, and we hope that the work we do here continues to merit your support.

We now have a special challenge in the $52,250 gift from Dr. and Mrs. Jay J. Seaver. Dr. Seaver is an alumnus and received an honorary degree from EMU. As you know, the gift will provide $10.00 to the 1970 Annual Fund for every new donor beyond last year's 2,539 donors. When the Challenge is met, this sum will make a substantial contribution to the advancement of Eastern.

I urge you all to participate in this activity, so that the benefit you derived from attending Eastern can continue to be extended to worthy young people. On behalf of the Regents, faculty, staff and students of Eastern, I want to thank you for your loyal and generous support.

NOTLEY MADDOX

At least four Notley Maddoxes fought in the Revolutionary War. Three of them later moved to the South and the other to Illinois.

The one who moved to Illinois was the great-grandfather of Notley Sinclair Maddox, professor of English at Eastern for twenty-three years, and it was in the land of Lincoln that Professor Maddox grew up. "I can recall early mornings, 'breaking out' the East Forty with my four horses hitched to the big gang plow, and if there is a prouder mortal than a twelve-year old boy driving a four-horse team, I know not who it might be, unless perhaps Koussevitzky taking the Boston Symphony through the first movement of Beethoven's third."

Professor Maddox earned his B.S., M.A. and Ph.D. from Ohio State University, and also attended the University of Illinois, but it is his first experience in school, in a one-room building back in Ebenezer District of Pea Ridge Township, that he remembers most fondly. "The school offered instruction through the tenth grade and was conducted by a teacher who received the fabulous salary of $80 per month."

According to Dr. Maddox, the students loved grammar (optative moods, illative conjunction, factitive complements, parsing and diagramming), arithmetic (the hare-and-hounds, cistern and grindstone problems), physiography (kames, eskers, terminal moraines, synclines and anticlines), and most of all, reading. "We assumed that everybody, except idiots, could read, did read and enjoyed reading." Recently Prof. Maddox found that an old schoolmate who had ended his formal education with the eighth grade could still recite every last word of Henry Grady's address on "The New South" and most of "Thanatopsis" and "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard."

Professor Maddox has taught a good many young people in the last 50 years, which he spent at Eastern, Connecticut College, Monticello College, Ohio State University, Franklin University, the Y.M.C.A. Schools in Columbus, Ohio, and the high school in Mansfield, Ohio. He feels that "it has been my privilege to teach some of the finest young men and women in America. Able, rightly ambitious, and imbued with high personal and professional ideals, they are, in no merely conventional sense, the hope of the future."

"Looking back now over a long academic career, I must say it has had its vicissitudes and frustrations, but it has been, on the whole, happy and rewarding. I have taught the courses I wanted to teach. I have had friendly, stimulating, helpful colleagues. I have never felt my academic freedom infringed upon. And while I have never hesitated to argue with administrative authority when I felt that I ought to, I realize that there has never been a time in history of American education when the life of an administrator has been so excruciatingly difficult as it is today. Bitchery, botchery and butchery confront him wherever he turns."

Professor Maddox will retire this June with a record of 49 years of dedicated service to educating the country's youth. His parting advice to college students here now and yet to come, is "a piece of wisdom paraphrased from Thoreau: Instead of being so anxious to do good, set about being good. Before you start reforming the world, try making yourself into a better person. Alleviate your appalling ignorance of the history of mankind and of your own country. Try to get some acquaintance with the greatest human achievements in the realms of art and thought. Expand and get some accuracy into your poor little vocabulary. And pray that the Over-Soul so teach you to number your days that you may apply your hearts unto wisdom."

Eastern, its students, faculty, administrators and alumni, will miss, but long remember, this wise and witty man of letters.

HELEN McCALLA

Helen McCalla just moved back up the Hill; she's been down in the East Office Building on Norris Street since 1965. Before that she worked in the basement of Pierce Hall, and before that in Boone.

Miss McCalla is the controller for Eastern Michigan University and her brand new office on the first floor of Pierce is right next to the office of Vice President for Business and Finance Lewis E. Profit. And that's just where she needs to be because that's where the money is. A controller, or comptroller in some offices, is responsible for the financial books of record and the business operations of a business firm or institution. According to Miss McCalla, "A controller's job is mostly money, practically all money."

That's a big job at a university like Eastern which has grown and expanded so dramatically in recent years and has a budget for this year of more than $24 million. And it's a job that has changed a great deal since 1922 when Miss McCalla first began working for Eastern. Only then its name was Michigan State Normal College.

She has received her Life Certificate from MSNC in 1920, along with her business degree and Life Certificate from Cleary College. At that time, Cleary was located in downtown Ypsilanti on Michigan Avenue at Adams and students who wanted to teach commercial subjects took their business courses there. It took two years to earn a Life Certificate and students attended Michigan Normal and Cleary at the same time.

Miss McCalla joined Eastern's staff originally as a substitute for a girl who was working as President McKenny's secretary. At the end of the year, she was offered a job in the Extension Department, now called Field Services, and a year later came back to the general financial offices as a financial secretary.

Welch Hall, Pease Auditorium, Sherzer Hall, Boone Hall and Starkweather Hall are the only buildings still in existence that were in use nearly 50 years ago. The other buildings comprising the rest of the College included the old Pierce Hall, the Men's and Women's Gymnasium, a health cottage, the old President's Residence, the boiler house and the greenhouse. There were 3,715 students on campus then. Most of them lived in rooming houses and were governed by a dean of women and a dean of men. The academic calendar was made up of three terms (like quarters) and a summer school.

Eventually Miss McCalla became assistant controller, and served in that position all through Benjamin Klager's regime. He had become controller when Eugene B. Elliott became president following the retirement of President John M. Munson. Then when Mr. Klager retired, Mr. Profit became controller and after he moved up to his vice presidential position, Miss McCalla took over the financial management. That was in 1964. She has also served as assistant treasurer to the Board of Regents ever since it was established in that same year.

Miss McCalla says she doesn't get to meet many students any more, and the new faculty members wouldn't even know her, but when she first worked in the controller's office she did a lot of work with both of these campus groups. That was when she worked with registration in setting up collections and when the faculty used the general administration's secretaries and clerks for their dictating. The administrative offices, including the controller's, were all housed in Boone at that time.

Miss McCalla used to do all of the bookkeeping and accounting for the University, another thing she doesn't handle any longer. Now she just works with things like investments (the University invests in certificates of deposit, treasury bills, government paper, commercial paper and other things approved by the Board of Regents) and the University budget. She shares responsibility for coordinating the preparation of the projected budget for the legislature in the fall, and during the year watches out for departments that are running out of money to see if she can help solve some of their problems.

Come a year from June, Miss McCalla will retire to her farm land, located on west Michigan Avenue near Hewitt, after more than 49 years of service to Eastern. She looks forward to doing some traveling and spending the summer months in northern Michigan, something the demands of being a controller have prevented her from enjoying.

Eastern Michigan University salutes its grande dame of the business office, a woman who "likes figures and handling money." And that's what got her started 49 years ago.

AN EMU FIRST

For the first time in its 30-year history, the American Legion Auxiliary Girls State will be held at Eastern Michigan University. More than 500 girls will attend the program, June 14 through June 21, which is dedicated to the training and development of girls who possess inherent qualities of leadership. During the session, the girls gain knowledge of the fundamental principles of American government through governing themselves by democratic procedures.

THE STUDENT SHIFT

Remember when Eastern was almost exclusively a girls' school? Well, probably not, because that was way back at the beginning, but up until 10 years ago, girls definitely dominated the enrollment. Last semester, the men outnumbered the women by 441 in a total enrollment of 18,809. There were still 182 more women than men at the undergraduate level, but the graduate school enrolled a male majority of 623.

A majority of undergraduate day students at Eastern, nearly 60 percent, are in academic programs leading to teacher certification. The largest group of students working toward certification is in the general area of arts and sciences under the junior-senior high school curriculum. The second largest group is in early elementary education and third is in special education. However, totals for this year represent a seven percent decrease in numbers of students in education programs compared to five years ago.

COMMENCEMENT COMMENTARY

A record 995 undergraduate and graduate degrees, 154 more than last year, were awarded during the 21st January Commencement at Eastern this year. Receiving honorary degrees at the ceremonies were Edgar Wiggins Waugh, professor-emeritus of political science at Eastern and Commencement speaker, Charles Stewart Harding Mott, president of the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation, Harold C. Rapson, former superintendent of schools in Monroe, and W. Harmon Wilson, president of the South-Western Publishing Company.

WITH SPECIAL PRIDE

Raphael D. Lieto, a sophomore at Eastern, was awarded the ROTC Medal for Heroism in January for saving the life of an unconscious workman caught in a steam-filled underground tunnel last September. He is the ninth person ever to receive the award, given by the Department of the Army.

OUR DEVELOPING DEPARTMENTS

■ Eastern's Department of Music was accepted as an active member of the National Association of Schools of Music last November. This means that the department has met the most rigorous of standards and that the Association has approved its bachelor's and master's degrees. Of some 3,000 schools and departments of music in the country, only 274 have been accepted as active members of the Association. Eastern had been an associate member since 1961.

■ The EMU Madrigal Singers will perform this June on a singing tour in England. Spending three days each at Coventry College, Berkshire College, Sheffield College and Nonington College, their repertoire will include primarily 16th century madrigals with representative songs from Italian and Spanish composers, French chansons, German part songs and English madrigals. The Madrigal Singers, composed of ten men and ten women chosen by audition, are conducted by Emily Lowe, assistant professor of music.

■ A national Science Foundation grant of $14,890 was accepted by the Board of Regents in January providing support for a project entitled "Undergraduate Research Participation." In the program undergraduate students will work under the supervision of biology faculty members who are currently conducting research. Dr. Richard A. Giles, head of the Department of Biology, will direct the project.

■ A lease on property in the Bahamas was approved by the Board of Regents last December. The property, available during summers and semester breaks, is known as Sandy Point on Great Abaco Island and will provide a base for biological research, specifically marine research. Facilities include a lodge, four cabins and sheds suitable for laboratory use.

■ A minor in anthropology has been added to the curriculum of Eastern through the Department of Sociology.

THE

Office of Information Services is, in its present form, fairly new to Eastern. It was established in early 1966, by expanding the older office of news and publications in both staff and concept.

Functions of the office are to produce all formal publications of the University and to coordinate the production of all other publications, to operate the University news bureau and to promote the athletic program through the sports information section. The director of Information Services sits on the president's Administrative Council and also acts as director of the new University Press, which publishes hard-cover scholarly books.

Publication responsibilities of the office have expanded dramatically along with the University. A staff of four currently produces at the rate of 120-140 publications a year.

Formal publications include all catalogs, course schedules, bulletins, commencement programs, the Student Life publication for prospective students and other material regularly published by the University. Publications initiated in other departments are also produced by this office. Examples include the Alumnus and other alumni materials, the periodicals élan and Business Ideas and Facts and pamphlets and brochures which may be issued only once.

For all of these publications, the office provides editing and design services and supervises production. The intention is to produce a high quality of printed material in the most efficient way possible.

The news bureau issues official releases, maintains contact with the news media, responds to inquiries and coordinates news coverage of major events, including the regular meetings of the Board of Regents. The bureau also operates a home-town news service, sending information about students and their activities directly to home-town newspapers. The result is 500-1000 clippings each month, plus an uncounted number of stories about Eastern broadcast on radio and television. Faculty-Staff News, an on-campus newsletter, is also produced by the news bureau.

Sports information staffers perform a similar function, concentrating on sports news and events.

Information Services employs 10 professional persons and four secretaries.

Awards won in the past year include the Otis E. Crosby School Public Relations Award from the Michigan Education Association, an award for overall excellence of publications from the American College Public Relations Association and numerous awards for athletic programs. The director has been invited to read papers and make presentations at regional and national conferences of the ACPRA and has published professional articles in the Association journal.

The central philosophy of the office is to provide the public with information about the University, and to fairly present news of the University to the widest possible audience.

SPORTS SPRING OF 70

FUZZBALLERS NEED DEPTH

Coach Ron Nemeth is counting heavily on veteran stars Dave Fisher and Al Jagutis to lead his TENNIS squad to a respectable record this spring. Fisher and Jagutis performed as the number one doubles team for the Hurons last season and won the district championship and earned the right to represent Michigan in the national tournament.

In addition to Fisher and Jagutis, Nemeth can count on returning lettermen Mike Domrowski, Robin Wideman and Maurice Gilbert in his quest for building a solid team.

The Hurons will train in the sunny southland during Easter vacation and play exhibition matches against East Tennessee State University, Emory and Henry College, Georgia Southern College and others.

The regular season opens on April 8 when the Hurons meet Oakland University.

LINKSMEN DEFEND TITLE

Although losing two top golfers through graduation, the Eastern Michigan University GOLF outlook remains bright. Four returning lettermen, an outstanding junior college transfer plus one exceptional high school golfer make up the roster of the 1970 squad. Of those returning, Russ Streeter has earned three varsity letters, while Dick Erb, Don Gostyla and Steve Presser each hold two of the varsity monograms.

Meanwhile, adding to the strength of the team is Troy Hornberger, a two time junior college all American at Orchard Ridge. Ed Muir had a great high school career at Divine Child in Detroit and hopes to continue his winning ways for the Hurons.

Gone are Jim Filipiak, the only Huron ever to reach NAIA All American status, and Frank Reaume, the only Eastern Michigan golfer ever to become an NCAA All American. However, Frank's younger brother Jeff has recently transferred to Eastern Michigan and will be eligible for the 1971 season.

Highlights of this season should be the defense of the Alma College Invitational Title and a journey to the NAIA District meet.

Outlooks are bright for a team that is loaded with experienced linksmen anxious to top last year's records.

THINCLADS HAVE HIGH HOPES

Even though the Eastern Michigan University TRACK team has been noted for their national indoor championships, this could be the year for the outdoor squad to outdo their indoor counterparts.

The Hurons have been traditionally weak in many of the outdoor events that are not held during the winter on the indoor circuit, such as the javelin, the discus, the hammer throw and the intermediate hurdles. However, this season Coach Bob Parks has stocked his squad with some outstanding performers in these events and hopes they will complement those coming up from their indoor group.

Bill Kouvololo, Ambridge, Pa., has hurled the javelin 225 feet 5 inches, which is the best heave in EMU history. Backing him up is a transfer from Sweden, Sven Damm, who has tossed the spear 228 feet. Along with these two standouts are several athletes who excel at throwing the discus, putting the shot and hefting the hammer.

Slated to compete in the two mile, three mile and six mile events is a man who should be no stranger to Huron track fans, Dave Ellis. A former Canadian Olympian, Ellis holds several national titles both indoors and outdoors, plus trophies from the cross country campaigns.

Coach Parks has put together a schedule that will test the very best. Five national relay meets start off the season against the toughest track squads in the country which will assemble at the University of Kentucky Relays, the Ohio State University Relays and the famous Drake University Relays.

The dual meet schedule also starts at the top with a journey to South Bend, Indiana, to take on the University of Notre Dame. The Hurons have fallen to the Irish by narrow margins the past two seasons and are hopeful of avenging these losses this time around.

The season wraps up with the NAIA national and NCAA College Division championships. In years past, the Hurons have come close to these titles, and the outlook is bright to make this season one of championship caliber.

DIAMONDMEN HEAD WEST

Anaheim, Azusa and Cucamonga used to be stops made by the fictional railroad on the old Jack Benny Radio Show. Now some thirty years later, all but Cucamonga are stops for Huron athletic teams.

The EMU BASEBALL team was first to heed the cries of "Go West, Young Men" when they boarded a sleek jet aircraft March 21 singing "California Here I Come." Destination of the diamondmen was Anaheim, where the team took part in the Orange County baseball tournament March 23-28.

Nine months later the Huron cagers will make the second west coast invasion when they meet Azusa Pacific College in the first round of the Pasadena Holiday tournament December 31.

When the Huron's baseball team embarked for Anaheim, it represented the first time in memory that any Eastern Michigan athletic team has competed in California.

The Orange County tournament was an eight team round-robin affair that put the Hurons in action seven times in six days. Competition for the championship came from the University of Oregon, the University of Wyoming, Brigham Young University and four area universities, California State College at Long Beach, California State College at Fullerton, the University of California at Irvine and Chapman College.

Following the west coast trip, head coach Ron Oestrike, who is gaining a reputation of being a fearless scheduler, will take his charges south to meet Georgia Southern College and the University of Tennessee.

The northern phase of his schedule brings such major schools into competitive range as the University of Indiana, the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Detroit College of Business, the University of Toledo, Kent State University, Bowling Green State University, Miami University of Ohio and Ball State University.

Big schedules and big opposition are nothing new to Oestrike and the Hurons. Starting his sixth season as head coach of his Alma Mater, Oestrike's teams have won 104 while losing only 57. Most of the victories have come during the past three seasons when the team won 87 of 127 games.

Oestrike will have many lettermen to call upon this spring. The only major losses by graduation were right handed pitchers Rick Krumm, Bill Giffin, Rick Berryman, first baseman Ed McLaughlin and left fielder Pete Casteel. Krumm and Giffin both were selected in the major league baseball draft.

The pitching corps will be led this season by righthander Tom Allen, from Adrian, and Flint left-hander Jerry Kramer.

Three-fourths of the infield seems set with lettermen Terry Trott, Coldwater, at short-stop, Terry Collins, Midland, at second and Jeff Peck, Adrian, at third. Collins was the leading hitter with a .355 batting average two seasons ago, and Peck the top swinger last year with a .360 average.

Behind the plate, two veterans provide a solid nucleus of strength. Senior Gary Krupinski, Detroit, and junior Dave Smigielski, Detroit, are experts at handling pitchers and both are extremely capable of providing the team with on-the-field leadership.

Competition will be extremely strong in the outfield with lettermen Jerry Warkentien, Marine City, Rick Konik, Detroit, Mike Knowles, Titusville, Florida, and Reggie Bar-ringer, Redford Township, all vying for the starting nod from Oestrike.

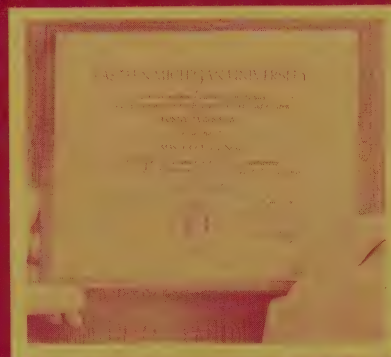

A lot of baseball, a lot of travel and a lot of hard work will be expended before the season comes to a close in June, but Oestrike and the team hope that the work will pay dividends in a national tournament bid.

HISTORY

Eastern Michigan University, founded by the State of Michigan in 1849 to educate teachers, was the first such college west of the Alleghenies. It was designated Michigan State Normal School until 1899 when the name was changed to Michigan State Normal College. In 1956 the name became Eastern Michigan College and in 1959 it was named Eastern Michigan University with colleges of arts and sciences, education, business and a graduate school.

ACADEMIC YEAR

Two semesters, 18 weeks each (September 15, 1969, to January 22, 1970, and February 2, 1970 to June 4, 1970, with recesses at Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter). In addition, there are three to four summer sessions and evening classes are also scheduled during the fall, spring and summer terms.

AVERAGE ACADEMIC LOAD

Fifteen hours is the normal academic load. One semester hour usually equals one class meeting per week.

WHY WE NEED THE UAA ON TODAY'S CAMPUS

Last fall we had the privilege of establishing the Undergraduate Alumni Association. You are probably asking, "How can a group exist if they haven't graduated?" We feel that since everyone eventually becomes an alumnus, why not create a smooth transition from student to alumnus status through the UAA? The students involved with this organization enjoy their association and contacts with the parent organization.

We are very proud of our UAA, and it is a pleasure working with these bright, alert and aware young men and women. They are dedicated to making a contribution to Eastern Michigan University, and while they see room for change, they set out systematically and legitimately to improve the situation. This group finds no need to destroy the University and build a new one in its rubble.

Too often we read or hear about the unpleasant activities of today's youth on campus. Members of the UAA are concerned about the image given all college students by a very few who feel that violence is an acceptable path to peace and that certain groups and organizations should be eliminated in the name of freedom. They are disturbed when all too often older people automatically tag them as irresponsible radicals merely because they are looking for opportunities to tell their story. We intend to help them erase this image. Whenever possible, we will have students with us when we meet alumni, both on and off of the campus.

If you live within a two-hour drive of Ypsilanti, why not contact the Office of Alumni Relations and let us set up a student discussion program for your service, education or religious group meeting? There is a great deal of misunderstanding about what is happening on our college campuses, and we think the presence of the UAA members can help clarify some of the issues. Think about it, and then contact us.

ALUMNUS

ALUMNUS

Contributors to Eastern Michigan University demonstrate faith in her future and in the potential of Alumni Association services to her. To recognize these faithful alumni, friends, faculty present and faculty past, and emphasize the importance of their donations, contributors as of December 31, 1969, are respectfully listed in the following pages. It is also our purpose to point out needs of the University and means by which these needs can be met to insure the heritage of excellence at Eastern Michigan University.

SEVENTY

CHALLENGE

It is with great pride and gratitude that we submit this Roll of Honor to you.

- Pride in the magnificent record of Annual Giving throughout 1969.
- Gratitude towards everyone who has supported Eastern Michigan University.

And, too, we are pleased to have this yearly opportunity to update development news and University progress for the 35,000 alumni of Eastern Michigan University, and especially to recognize alumni participation in the University's growth.

Headlining the development news of 1970 is undoubtedly the SEAVER CHALLENGE, designed to stimulate increased alumni involvement in the Annual Fund Program and, thereby, Eastern's future, through a dual donation plan.

The benefits of Annual Fund participation to the University and the students it serves are discussed in the following pages by Clare Ebersole, president of the Eastern Michigan University Alumni Association, and Hayes W. Jones, 1970 Annual Fund Chairman.

Discussed, too, are the tax benefits allowed by the federal government as a result of your support for Eastern.

As you will see, we have retrospected 1969 and are presenting our ambition for 1970: determination to advance Eastern to even greater heights in the field of higher education.

Most important of all, we are pleased and very proud to honor you who loyally serve Eastern Michigan University with dedication and enthusiasm through your continued contributions and sincere interest.

Jack Miller
Director of Alumni Relations and Acting Director of Development.

THE ANNUAL FUND

THE PROUDEST ALUMNI

those who serve by giving

Contributing to the 1970 Annual Fund signifies support for the aim of higher education: superior educational facilities and opportunities for students.

To contribute to the Annual Fund, all you need to do is forward a check, payable to Eastern Michigan University, to the Development Office for the amount you wish to contribute.

The Development Office will acknowledge your gift with a donor card and receipt.

"The Proudest Alumni" are those who meet the "Challenge 70"—whether it be through continuing a consecutive giving record of ten, seven, five or three years or by initiating a consecutive record this year.

Your donor card and name in the 1970 Roll of Honor will reflect your loyalty to Eastern.

PRESIDENT'S CLUB

The President's Club was established to allow interested alumni a chance to work closer with the University Administration on campus projects.

The club honors the President of the University, Dr. Harold E. Sponberg, and all past presidents of the institution. Throughout the one hundred and twenty-one years of its history, Eastern Michigan University has been guided by these wise and distinguished leaders in education. They have helped the University attain the important place it holds in academic circles today—in part through their work with the State Legislature and in part by winning the friendship of alumni and other friends who have contributed greatly to University progress.

The President's Club is a symbol of the abiding interest of alumni and others in the leadership of its president. It also offers a means by which the University recognizes those who have made outstanding gifts toward maintaining recognized excellence at Eastern Michigan University.

MEMBERSHIP REQUIREMENTS

Admittance to the President's Club can come through invitation only to alumni, former students, and special friends of the University. Election is contingent upon a membership pledge in one of two ways.

an invitation to

THE LIFE MEMBERS OF THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

to join the Men and Women of Eastern

SPECIAL TO ALL LIFE MEMBERS OF THE EMU ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

As a paid-in-full Life Member of the Alumni Association, you hold a most pleasant honor that is shared by 1,366 other loyal alumni. Through the more than 40 years the Alumni Association has been incorporated, leadership and support of the Association has rested heavily in the hands of all Life Members.

But times and needs have changed; so effective January 1, 1970, your Board of Directors discontinued any further offering of Life Memberships. The Board stipulated, however, that Life Members will continue to receive all issues of the Alumnus, retain full voting rights for Board elections and hold full Life Membership as long as they shall live.

The Board feels that as we enter our first Annual Fund Drive, and with the increasing needs of the University, the leadership of Life Members can serve as a firm base of annual giving. The Board is, therefore, asking all Life Members to consider joining the new Men and Women of Eastern Club, which is outlined below.

THE MEN AND WOMEN OF EASTERN

THE PURPOSE

To recognize those who demonstrate their belief in private philanthropy as an important resource of higher education and who encourage others to follow their example by giving financial support to Eastern Michigan University.

THE QUALIFICATIONS

Membership is open to graduates, former students and friends of Eastern Michigan University.

THE REQUIREMENTS

Membership is extended to those contributing $100 to $999 in one year. A joint membership for husband and wife requires $125. The term of membership is one calendar year. Memberships may be retained by renewing contributions each year.

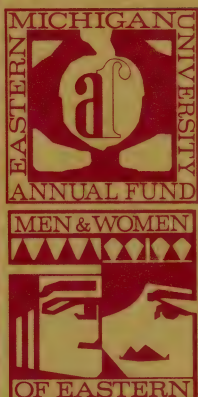

Contributions may be designated for any college, department, scholarship or a project of special interest by notifying the Development Office. All contributions are properly deductible within the rules of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

THE RECOGNITION

Members will be recognized with personal membership cards and with the publication of their name on the membership roster in the Annual Fund's annual report, The Roll of Honor.

May we close with this thought: the Men and Women of Eastern are dedicated to providing opportunities for all our ambitious and talented young men and women; your contribution to the 1970 Annual Fund will help make available opportunities never before dreamed of to our future alumni.

CORPORATE

MATCHING GIFT PROGRAM

Hundreds of business corporations recognize the importance of skilled and educated employees. Their way of saying 'thanks' to the university that helped train and prepare you for their specific requirements is to "match" your gift to your university each year, thus doubling your contribution.

Listed below are firms that have such a matching program.

Alumni and friends contributing to Eastern Michigan University who are associated with one of these firms can arrange to have this "matching gift," courtesy of their company, sent to Eastern.

We urge you to determine if this project is included in your employer's benefit program—if so, be sure to let the management know of your support of Eastern Michigan University.

Note: firms listed in bold type were participants in this "matching gift" program in 1969.

. . . whether you're flying to the moon, running in the Olympics, or conducting an Annual Fund for a University; so I count it a privilege to accept a first-of-its-kind challenge from Eastern Michigan University. As the first National Chairman of the Annual Fund, I have accepted an assignment which I look forward to with excitement because I have always been a firm believer that no challenge is too big, and no HURDLE is insurmountable.

The Annual Fund is a program designed to provide the financial resources for our University's quest for excellence. I feel that you, as interested alumni and friends, will respond to an opportunity to participate. So, I now offer you a challenge, THE SEAVER CHALLENGE, which is a $52,250 challenge to alumni at Eastern Michigan University. But the real challenge is yours; for each new donor over the 1969 total of 2,539 we will receive $10 from the Seaver Challenge.

Every gift, large or small, is vital. Your thoughtful contribution, proportionate to your means, will assist Eastern Michigan University in providing today's students with a "margin of excellence."

Cordially,

Hayes W. Jones

Hayes W. Jones '61
National Chairman,
The 1970 Annual Fund

*Mr. and Mrs. Jay J. Seaver with

THE SEAVERS

Mr. and Mrs. Jay J. Seaver are residents of Chicago, the city Mr. Seaver chose in 1946 as the location of the engineering consulting firm he organized. The company, Jay J. Seaver Engineers, built and designed blast furnaces and steel plants all over the world.

A native of Ypsilanti, Mr. Seaver attended Eastern in 1907 when it was Michigan State Normal College and was active in the Arm of Honor fraternity. He earned his bachelor of Mechanical Engineering degree from the University of Michigan in 1912.

During his engineering career, Mr. Seaver has served as a draftsman, superintendent, vice-president and president of various engineering firms. In 1967, he received an honorary Doctor of Engineering degree from Eastern.

Mrs. Seaver has had a long career in the home furnishings industry as a coordinator of design, color and styles between manufacturers and retailers. She now serves as a counselor to young people entering the home furnishings field and as a lecturer to consumer groups.

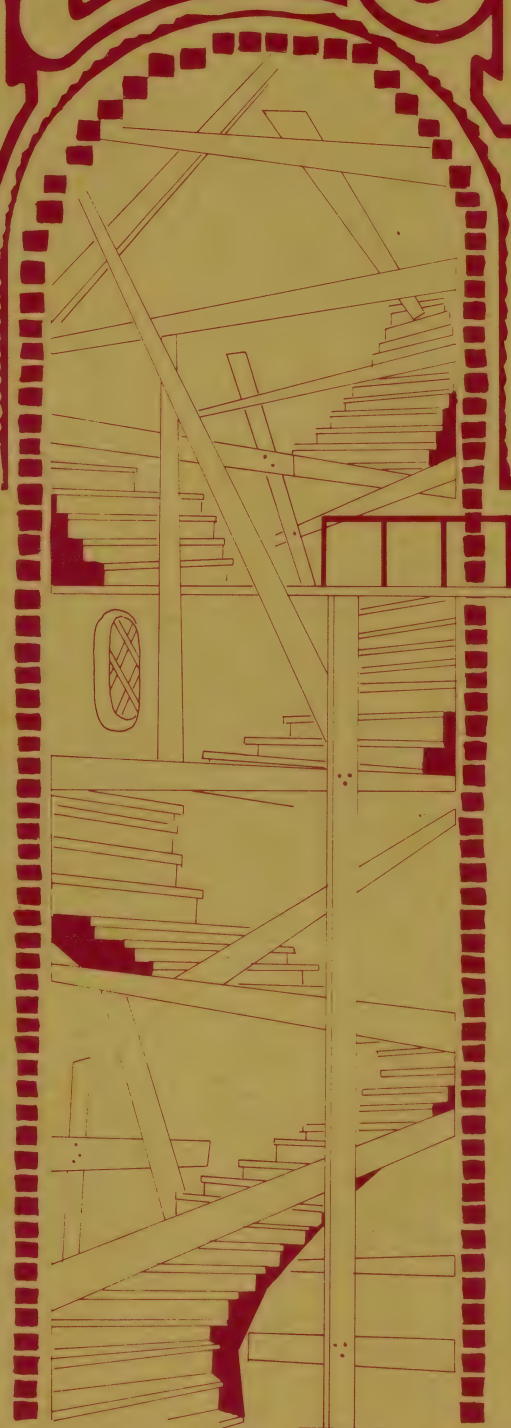

Mr. and Mrs. Seaver both serve on the University's Development Board and are members of the University Circle Club.

CHALLENGE SEVENTY

The old brick water tower has been a landmark in Ypsilanti and at Eastern for 80 years. It means many things to many people, but nevertheless is always fondly remembered. Because of its enduring aspects, we have selected it to graph our progress in the 1970 Annual Fund Drive and in meeting the Seaver Challenge. Succeeding Challenge announcements will depict the growth in numbers of donors and amounts of dollars.

Our goal for the 1970 Annual Fund Drive is $150,000; the Seaver Challenge will give $10 to the Fund for each donor above 2,539 (last year's total number of donors). To meet the challenge of $52,250, we must have 5,225 more donors contributing to the Fund this year. Each gift, large or small, will help us to succeed and is, therefore, vital.

THE MAGIC OF A "SMALL GIFT"

Some alumni feel that "small gifts" are insignificant to the development program, but these gifts possess, indeed, a very special magic.

The gift that buys one brick for a building is needed if that building is to be completed.

The gift that purchases one book for the library is not small when a student needs that book.

Eastern's library is made up of individual books; our buildings of individual bricks; our University of individual students.

Whatever the amount, your gift will be gratefully received because "there are no small gifts!"

To Our Alumni and Friends:

In a Roll of Honor, the figures speak for themselves. What has gone into them, in terms of work and programs, however, makes an interesting story.

The story is both interesting and inspiring at the same time; for every name listed in this report represents an individual's dedication to Eastern Michigan University and the cause of higher education. Each individual's motivation for giving may differ but the net result is progress for an institution in which we all believe.

Much more could be said, but the essence of the story is the great benefit the University receives from your generosity. Without your annual help, many programs at EMU would of necessity be deferred. With your continued assistance, Eastern Michigan University can continue as one of the major universities in the region.

On behalf of the Alumni Board of Directors, we thank you for your support in 1969 and look forward to the University's continued progress with the help of alumni in 1970.

PUBLIC ACT 315

Act 315 of the Public Acts of 1968 provides a tax credit against Michigan income tax for charitable contributions to institutions of higher learning located within the state of Michigan, provided the contribution is for the general fund or the general support of the institution. Under this act, Eastern Michigan University allows credit for contributions to its general fund. Details of the act are explained below.

ELIGIBILITY:

All Michigan residents.

DESIGNATION OF GIFTS:

Must be designated for the general fund to be eligible for tax credit.

LIMIT ON TAX CREDIT:

Individuals filing separately may claim up to 50 percent of their gift as a tax credit. The maximum credit is 20 percent of the taxpayer's tax liability or $100, whichever is less.

Individuals filing joint returns may claim up to 50 percent of their gift as a tax credit. The maximum is 20 percent of the taxpayer's tax liability or $100, whichever is less.

LIMIT ON TAX CREDIT FOR CORPORATIONS:

Corporations and other qualifying institutions can claim up to $5,000 as credit against state income taxes. Their contributions are computed on the 50 percent base, but their credit is limited to 10 percent of the tax due.

EFFECTIVE DATE OF LEGISLATION:

November 15, 1968; all gifts made during 1970 are eligible if used for the general fund of the University.

ILLUSTRATIONS:

Individuals—

An individual with an income large enough to require payment of $150 in state income tax could donate $60 to Eastern Michigan University and qualify for a $30 tax credit since that is 50 percent of his contribution and 20 percent of his tax due.

If a married couple had income large enough to require payment of $1,000 in state income tax, they could donate $400 to Eastern Michigan University and qualify for a $200 tax credit on their joint return.

Corporations—

A large corporation with a state tax bill of $100,000 could make a $10,000 contribution to Eastern and claim half of it as a tax credit.

WAYS

FORMULA PLAN

In many instances, it is difficult to know what to contribute to the annual giving program at the University. Of course, it all depends on the circumstances of each alumnus. Annual gifts range from $5 to $10,000, and each serves a specific need; all help fulfill the purpose of annual giving—improving the quality of education at Eastern. When in doubt as to what to donate, a practical guideline is the Formula Plan. Using this method, an alumnus would contribute an annual gift equal to $1 for each year that he has been out of school. A graduate from the Class of 1944 would give $26 this year, $27 next year, and so on. In this way, we can assure the Development Fund of a broader base of alumni support over the years through the most equitable plan possible.

PERMA-PLEDGE...

To Provide Continuing Support For Eastern

A new concept in annual giving has been initiated at Eastern—the perma-pledge.

This is actually a very simple plan and has been used successfully by other major universities for some time. It provides alumni with an opportunity to make a regular gift to the Alumni Fund at the time of the year most convenient to them. Further, it will make unnecessary the multiplicity of appeal which can be a source of annoyance to annual donors.

Under the plan each perma-pledger will receive the annual report and honor roll every year, but no other mail appeals. On the date that he has designated, he will receive reminder notes that the annual gift indicated on his pledge card is due. This arrangement will enable us to concentrate our efforts on alumni whose understanding of Eastern's needs has not been as great.

A perma-pledge space has been included on this year's gift envelope and forms. A pledge may be changed or cancelled at any time, and is in no way legally binding on a donor or his estate.

ESTATE PLANNING

The owner of an estate has a responsibility to himself, his wife, his children, and finally, to those charitable institutions to which he is most favorably disposed. Because of the increased complexity of our society and our tax laws, a simple will is no longer sufficient. A lifetime of work spent in establishing an estate requires attention and guidance for its protection to insure that its disposition accomplishes the owner's objectives in the best and most satisfying manner.

In essence, estate planning is the arrangement of a person's affairs in order to satisfy as well as possible at any particular time, the needs of the owner during his lifetime and the needs of those who will depend upon his estate after his death.

Actually, there are times when a donor, by including a gift to education in his estate plan, can provide more capital working for his widow and children than he could by direct transfer. Estate planning is a practical, economic arrangement for the disposition of property and provides an opportunity to create tax savings. It is simply good financial housekeeping involving many human, economic, legal and tax considerations.

It is not a do-it-yourself affair but rather a tremendously complicated project which requires the advice and guidance of at least an attorney, and possibly a trust officer, accountant or life underwriter.

GIFTS OF LASTING VALUE

The desire to create and to be remembered as a benefactor to posterity is a natural and admirable human aspiration. Few of us can leave a great masterpiece of art or an immortal monument to mankind, but the opportunity to serve and to be remembered by future generations is within the reach of most of us.

Although most Eastern Michigan alumni prefer to make their contributions in the form of cash, there are other ways to assist the University to assure gifts of enduring value, and which also may offer special tax advantages.

These include:

1. Life income gifts
2. Gifts of appreciated securities

Alumni and friends of Eastern who wish additional information on "Ways to Give" are asked to contact the Development Office, McKenny Union, Eastern Michigan University, (313) 487-0250. We will be pleased to consult with you, your attorney or tax counselor.

THE IMPORTANCE OF A WILL

Last year the Development Fund received bequests from four alumni and friends of the University—donors who will always be remembered for their loyalty and devotion to Eastern Michigan University.

A will is a basic instrument of any estate planning. Without a will, the individual loses all control over the distribution of his estate.

The drafting of a will is, of course, the function of your attorney, and we urge that he be consulted on any estate planning. But may we respectfully suggest that you keep in mind that your will is a useful and fitting vehicle for benefiting your Alma Mater.

Your bequest to Eastern Michigan University, regardless of size, will:

- Establish a perpetual memorial to you, your family or other loved one.
- Be exempt from inheritance tax and excluded from the top bracket of the donor's estate.
- Provide valuable assistance to Eastern Michigan University.

Should you or your attorney desire additional bequest information, or other assistance, please contact the EMU Development Office.

If you have remembered the University in your will, the Director of Development would appreciate being notified.

STOCKS AND BONDS INSTEAD OF CASH?

YES! . . . A GOOD WAY TO GIVE, when they are worth more than when you bought them.

HOW TO GIVE SECURITIES

1. SEND THE CERTIFICATE TO THE DEVELOPMENT FUND without a signature and, in a separate envelope, send the Fund a Stock Power Form which you can get from your broker or attorney. The Stock Power Form should be signed only with your name.
2. GIVE THE CERTIFICATE TO YOUR BROKER and tell him to hold for the account and instructions of the Development Fund. Then immediately tell us what you have done; we will contact your broker.
3. SIGN YOUR NAME ON THE CERTIFICATE and send it by registered mail to the Development Fund. Please do NOT put the Fund's name on the certificate.

The value of your gift is the average market price on the day the security is given to your broker or mailed to the Fund.
